

“Courage is the most important of all the virtues because without courage, you can't practice any other virtue consistently.”